

JUST SOCIETY: The Rule of Law and Equal Access to Welfare
Running again in 2024!

Deepen your understanding of challenges to equal access to welfare.

Deadline: March 3rd 2024.

JUST SOCIETY offers an interdisciplinary and comparative course that deepens your knowledge and understanding of the rule of law, rights and welfare policies globally.

You will investigate the conditions of (in)equal access to rights and welfare from comparative and interdisciplinary perspectives together with students from different countries and various disciplinary backgrounds such as law, political science, public administration, sociology and social work.

The course will enable you to contribute actively to the advancement of just welfare states.

Read more about the overall course here, and more specifically for students in Brazil here.

Before applying, make sure you fulfill the eligibility criteria and can participate in the onsite MANDATORY induction workshop on the 22-23 March.
